AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN

The Continued Disturbances Across the Aqueduct Bridge.

Local Notes of a General and Especial Interest to Residents and

The published reports of the various petty, unlawful acts at the little village of Rosslyn, at the Virginia end of the Aqueduct bridge, gives offense to some of the residents of that place, who claim that it is one of the most law-abiding sections of the country. The residents of Georgetown who hear the echo of frequent brawls, through the medium of gun shots, entertain a different view. The whole cause of the present state of affairs is said to be due to the lax way in which the law is enforced. There are few officers in the village, and the arrests made by them are almost in five out of seven times dismissed. With the gambling headquarters and the open liquor traffic as the main offenses, there are any number of petty crimes that are committed directly traceable to the first two named. The claim that the officers of the district are under obligations to the saloon keepers and gamblers seems to be well founded, and the son of the lead-ing justice of the peace of Rosslyn is employed as a writer in one of the many policy shops of the place. The father is aware of this, and many of the cases brought before him are tempered with unusual mercy. This condition of affairs can hardly be remedied. Most of the officers of the village are elective ones, and the gamthe village are elective ones, and the gamblers and others hold the upper hand, having more than enough votes at their command to run things to suit themselves. The few law-abiding citizens in the vicinity are helpless, and are forced to submit to he condition of affairs.

Mr. Hay's Lecture.

Mr. E. B. Hay will deliver the second of his series of lectures next Tuesday evening at the Linthicum Hall. His subject will be "Italy, the Beautiful," and the lecture promises to be a treat to all those who attend. The discourse will be illustrated with a number of excellent stereopticon views, which will add greatly to the value of the entertainment. The lecture will treat of the various phases of life of Italy, its magnificent seenery and historic cities, and different sights that will be extremely interesting when handled in the peculiar style of the lecturer.

Romantic Wedding.

Another remantic wedding has just come to light, in which Mr. Harry S. Staub of 1619 32d street, a well-known young man, and Miss Sarah E. Rhodes of Alexandria, the daughter of the superintendent of the Arlington National cemetery, are the contracting parties. The couple took a train to Baltimore Monday afternoon, and were united in the bonds of matrimony by Bishop James A. Latone of 1412 Park avenue. The young people were fond of each other, and this was known by their many friends. The two were to have been married some months ago, but the ceremony was postponed owing to the death of the father of Mr. Staub. Mr. Staub, who worked in Hume's grocery, left the city Monday afternoon at an early hour, and, going to Baltimore, secured a marriage license. He returned to the city, and, meeting his sweetheart at the house of a friend on New York avenue, they took the next train to Baltimore and were married. It was the intention of both to keep the matter a secret, but to no avall.

AMUSEMENTS.

Boston Instrumental Club Concert.-The Boston Instrumental Club, consisting of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, assisted by Mrs. Frank A. Gardner soprano, entertained a large audience at the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon with a concert in aid of the National Homeopathic Hospital. Friends of the hospital and those interested in the higher order of music responded generously, and as a result the hospital is today much better off financially. The affair was also a gratifying social success, among those oc-cuping boxes and orchestra chairs being a great many persons prominent in social

Mrs. Gardner was on the program for two numbers, but determined encores required the singing of as many more. Possessing an attractive personality and man-ner, as well as a clear and well-trained, though not powerful, voice, Mrs. Gardner had no difficulty in at once winning a high place in the regard of her auditors. Mrs. Gardner sang Luckstone's waltz song, "Delight," Gounod's "'Tis Not Always May," and "Belraggio," from "Semiramide." Each time she appeared on the stage she was fairly loaded down with floral rewards.

The members of the club are Mr. W. Swornborne, conductor; Mr. Daniel Kuntz, violin; Mr. F. E. Schuchmann, violin; Mr. E. B. Marble, viola; Mr. Rudolph Nagel, 'cello; Mr. E. Golde, bass; Mr. G. B. Van Santvoord, flute; Mr. C. L. Staats, clarinet; Mr. F. C. Muller, oboe; Mr. Pierre Muller, trumpet; Mr. H. Lorbeer, horn; M. C. Schumann, horn.

Muller, trumpet; Mr. H. Lorbeer, horn; M. C. Schumann, horn.

The numbers were Rossini's overture, "Italians in Algiers;" Gounod's entracte, "Philemon et Baucis;" a selection from Wagner's "Lohengrin;" a double number, "The Shepherd's Dance" and "The Morris Dance," from German's "Henry VIII;" Langey's "Canzonetta." "Felice;" and a selection from Punchielli's "La Gioconda." It is needless to say that all were executed It is needless to say that all were executed It is needless to say that all were executed in a manner thoroughly artistic, and each was fully appreciated by the audience. Witt's "Sonntageruhe" for string quartet was particularly pleasing, as was Doppler's duet for flute and horn, "Souvenir de Rigi," by Messrs. Van Santvoord and Lorbeer.

The Biograph.-The exhibitions at Willard Hall of the Biograph continue to attract most appreciative audiences. The Biograph has developed into a genuine instructor. For the past two weeks there has been an ircreased interest upon the part of educa-tors to witness the realistic views shown by the wonderful invention. The new views of the inauguration of President McKinley are proving to be exceedingly popular. They are doubly interesting because they are the exact reproductions of scenes which thousands of the citizens of Washington witnessed, and the fidelity of the Biograph to make a truthful record of passing events naturally stimulates local interest in the instructive entertainment.

Many of the schools and churches have become so interested in the exhibition that number of special benefits have been arranged. On Saturday next the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Congregational Church will have their initial benefit. During the remainder of the time the Biograph remains in Washington many new views will be added, making an entire change in the number. There are some views, however, which do not grow old; but, upon the contrary to receive the state of which do not grow old; but, upon the con-trary, increase in popular favor the more frequently they are seen. The perform-ances will continue, as usual, at 2:30, 4:30 and 8:15 p.m.

The Crystal Maze.-The Crystal Maze a 427 7th street northwest is now in its sixtr week of continued success. The management, however, in consequence of previ-ously made contracts, will have to leave Washington shortly, and those who would like to see this funny and unique place would do well to go at ence, because there may not be another opportunity. The Maze was crowded all of last week, in spite of the bad weather, and, as has before been said, ladies form the majority of the visitors. Maze parties seem also to be in great favor, and the management has been ap-proached by several schools and clubs for special prices, as they want to visit the Maze in a body.

Haley's Band Concert.-A concert by Ha-Washington Concert Band is an-aced for Sunday evening, April 4, at the National Theater, when the former successes of this excellent organization will be repeated. Not in the modern history at least of musical Washington has there been recorded such almost instantaneous success for any body of musicians as that which has rewarded the hard and persistent labors of Mr. Haley and his able force. Mr. Haley has been happy in the selection of his programs as the great selection of his programs, as the great favor of their reception in the past will attest. For this concert Miss Bertha Lu-cas, violiniste, will be the soloist.

Henry Miller in "Heartsease."-The sale of seats for the engagement of Henry Miller at the Columbia Theater next week in the new romantic drama "Heartsease" opened this morning. The sale was extremely large, and already assures a bril tremely large, and already assures a bril-liant audience for this talented actor's opening night. The result is particularly gratifying, for it indicates that the public taste is still in the direction of wholesome plays, despite the quantities of French sug-gestiveness with which theater-goers have been so frequently regaled the past few seasons. "Heartsease" has the agreeable aroma and poetic feeling that is associated with the pretty, dainty flower from which aroma and poetic feeling that is associated with the pretty, dainty flower from which it takes its name, and an interesting, clean love story, healthful sentiment, elevating ambition, picturesque surroundings and stirring incident are the elements which make up its plot and action. Mr. Miller, who plays the leading role, is a deserved favorite in Washington. Manager Charles Frohman has surrounded him with a company of unusual excellence. Among them are Louise Thorndyke Boucicault, Grace Kimball, Nannette Comstock, John T. Sullivan, Frank Burbeck, Leslie Allen, Max Figman, E. D. Lyons and others of aimost equal note. equal note.

St. Paul's Church.-A musical and literary entertainment will be given in the lecture room of St Paul's Church, corner 11th and H streets northwest, tomorrow evening. Took It All Back.

A red-haired young man, who had indulged in too much red liquor, and whose necktie matched his hair and liquor, slept in the sixth police station last night, and this morning he was delighted when he learned that there was not a charge of fifty cents against him for the night's lodging. Samuel B. Fleming was the name he gave, and he said his home was at Mt. Jackson, Va., a small town in the Shenandoah valley. Because of his condition last night he made statements concerning an alleged serious crime for which he was wanted at his home, but this morning, when sober, he said he had not killed his wife, although he had had some trouble with her. When questioned at the detective office, he said he had left home, never to return, and, although it was his intention to make his although it was his intention to make his home in Baltimore, he had changed his mind, because he thought Washington was such a beautiful city. He said he would never return home to his wife, and before leaving headquarters he said he was going sight-seeing, and then he would join

Against Hog Pens.

A great many hog pens in the county will have to be gotten rid of during the next few days, for Inspector Beaumont of the health department has already served a number of abatement notices. Last year and the year before the health department officials had considerable trouble with hog raisers in the county. Complaints of the filthy condition of these places were made, and a complete inspection followed, with the result that many of the people were driven out of the business. In many instances the pens are located near the pub-lic roads, and the filthy condition of some of them caused complaints from persons who have occasion to drive along the high-ways. This season the first complaints received came from the village of Garfield, near Good Hope. During the investigation made last week, the inspector learned that some of the complaints had been made by residents of the village against their neigh-bers. The inspection disclosed a number of places where the sanitary condition was far from good, and consequently the notices to abate the ruisances were served. In event of the alleged nuisances not being atated, the owners will be taken into

Mite Association.

A bill in equity has been filed by John Hamacher on behalf of the St. John's Mite Association, and the Washington City Orphan Asylum, against Robert Y. Slater and others to set aside a deed to Slater from Anna M. Buchly for lot 17, square 116.

Miss Buchly was the sister of the Anthony Buchly, and inherited a life interest in all his property, being empowered to sell or transfer any of the property when it became necessary to do so for her suitable maintenance. She died March 8, 1897, and February 25, 1897, she deeded the lot to Slater, who put a trust of $7,000 upon it, payable to Sallie Sullivan.

The complainants assert that Miss Buchly, having considerable property in her own right, was not authorized to make the conveyance, and that they are entitled to the property as residuary legatees under the will of Mr. Buchly.

Pleasant Reception.

A delightful reception was given last evening at the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church to the new pastor, Rev. C. O. Isaac, and family. The event was also made the occasion of saying farewell to the former pastor, Rev. James McLaren, and his family.

The church was filled, and not only were most of the members present, but many other citizens of the town were in the audience. The decorations were furnished by Gude Bros. and were very profuse, and consisted of flowers and palms. Instead of the usual collation of ice cream and cake, each person in attendance was presented with a bouquet. The program was partici-pated in by Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson of the Baptist Church and Rev. J. B. North of Garden Memorial, Rev. C. O. Isaac, Rev. J. B. McLaren, Rev. George Bowman, Mr. J. H. Dony and others, Latters of regret ability to attend were read from Rev Dr. D. B. Wilson, presiding cide. and W. G. Davenport of Emmanuel Protestant

The committee of arrangements was com posed of Messrs. J. H. Dony, chairman H. A. Linger, sr., J. W. Barse, H. W. Fne and S. R. Brown, with the following assist ing: A. B. Suit, Mrs. Sue King, Miss Mat tie Minnix, S. T. Fort and Mrs. M. B. Tew

Pederation of Women's Clubs. The board of the District
Women's Clubs, consisting of the presi-The board of the District Federation of dents and one director from each of the ten clubs in the federation, held a very enthusiastic meeting last night at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood. Mrs. Bain of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Mrs. North from the Press Corps, and Mrs. North from the Press Club, were elected to membership. The committees on kindergarten work in the public schools reported through the chairman, Mrs. Lucia E. Blount, that the appropriation to begin this work failed to pass the last Congress, but that there was great hope of soon being able to have some of these schools in the parts of the city where most needed. The same committee having in charge the condition of women clerks in stores will investigate that of the women employed in the mall bag repair shops. Mrs. Tanner was added to that committee. The Federation will hold a mass meeting April 20 at the Wimodaughsis parlors.

Reminders of Gulliver's Travels. Fac similes of the immense shoe of Gulliver's giant and the Lilliputians who assisted in his capture are now displayed in the show window of F. Crocker, 939 Pennsylvania avenue. The story of "Travels to Lilliput" by Swift will always be of interest to the children, who are reveling in the chance to see the giant's big shoe. It is moss covered and overrun with white mice, while the Lilliputians are clambering

Souvenirs of Spring.

Mayer & Pettit's furniture store is look ing its prettiest today, the occasion being the annual spring opening. Visitors have thronged the big floors, feasting their eyes on the furniture, bric-a-brac, fancy pieces and knick-knacks with which the store is crowded. An artistic souvenir, a beautiful medallion on a wire easel, is presented to every visitor as a memento of the opening. Ladies will be especially interested in the clothing and cloak department, where the lewest and best of fashionable garment are displayed to the fullest advantage.

It matters little what it is that you want -whether a situation or a servant-a "want" ad. in The Star will reach the person who can fill your need.

The Grip

After

Recovery is slow, and a good tonic is needed. Thousands have found Hood's Sarsaparilla exactly dapted to building up their wasted strength. The extreme weakness, hacking cough and lack of energy which are the results of grip yield like magic to the invigorating influence of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and thoroughly cradicates the disease, preventing heart troubles and other serious after effects of the grip. SICK FOR TWO YEARS.

"My wife lad the grip, and was slek for two years afterward. It left her with catarrh and her LUNGS WERE AFFECTED. She commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. At that time she suffered constant pain through her lungs and was badly pressed for hreath. This was accompanied by a continual backing cough and a constant dropping of mucus. She also HAD A BAD HEADACHE. Now all is changed. The headach, pains in the lungs and hacking cough are gone. Her catarrhal symptoms are also about cured. She has gained in flesh, and now weighs 150 pounds. She attributes her improved condition to Hood's Sarsaparilla.
